CITY BEER TRIALS ON 'DEAD DOCKET'

Criminal Court Solicitor
Says Cases Will Not Be Opened Unless 'Public
Welfare' Demands It.

Solicitor John S. McClelland, of the criminal court of Atlanta, Monday announced that there would be no more prosecutions of Atlanta beer
cases in his court.

The cases now pending against dealers of 3.2 per cent beer are to be withdrawn and placed on the court's dead docket, the solicitor announced, stating that the prosecution of the cases
will not be resumed "unless public
welfare demands it."

Mr. McClelland pointed out that the two beer dealers tried were accused of selling beer to the public
outside the city limits and of selling
beer to the public inside the city limits.

Mr. McClelland's statement did not include sellers of beer outside the city limits of Atlanta. About an hour after he had made his announcement
a detail of county police raided the Pig 'n Whistle stand on Peachtree road just outside the city limits and confiscated 19 cases of beer.

The manager, H. H. Chambers, was instructed to appear at the courthouse
today and post $100 bond. The raiding squad was composed of Lieutenant Butler and Patrolmen Wallace, Webb, Patrick, Hensley, Cates and Dowd.

The officers said that they had not been informed of Mr. McClelland's decision but pointed out that they were following Chief George Mathieson's instructions to make cases against all beer violators outside the city limits.

The same body of officers conducted three other raids late in the afternoon. They raided the Bear's Head on Piedmont road and found six bottles of beer, but the only person on the premises was a negro. They instructed him to tell his employer to post bond this morning.

The other raids were made at the Colonade, on Piedmont road near Lindbergh drive, where eight and one-half cases of beer were found.

CLEARWATER, Fla., June 12.
(AP)—Spanking his wife proved costly to Granville B. Moore, of Safety Harbor, Fla., in county court today
when Judge Harry R. Hewitt gave him a choice of $500 fine or five months in jail.

Moore was charged with assault
and battery for applying a board
to his wife. He pleaded guilty.

CAPT. ERROL BOYD ARRIVES IN HAITI FROM NEW YORK

Flyer, Companions Reported Near St. Marc;
Safe Landing Made, Port
Au Prince Hears.

By the Associated Press.
Jimmie Mattern hopped off from Khabarovsk for Haiti early Tuesday
and one nonstop New York-to-Haiti
flight left short of its goal yesterday
while two other lengthy air jaunts
were completed, and two more were in the last stages of negotiations.

Mattern, after a long rest at the Siberian town, took off for the Alaskan city anxious to set a solo globe-
circling mark which will compare favorably with the Post-Office record.

Captain J. Errol Boyd and two companions were forced down at St.
Marc, near their goal, Port au Prince.
All were safe, reports said.

Captain Mariano Barberan and Lieutenant Joaquin Collar, Spanish
fliers, completed their Seville, Spain,
to Havana flight, landing at the Cuban capital after a short hop from Camaguey, which they reached Sunday.

J. Scott Bernuth, an American,
and Errol Boyd, a Colombian, landed their two planes at Bogota, Colombia, to complete a four-leg hop from St. Louis, Mo.

Twenty-four planes, to be manned
by 96 men, went through final preparations at Orbetello, Italy, for a take-off Wednesday morning for Chicago. The flight will be made in easy stages under the command of aviation minister, General Italo Balbo.

Stephen Darius and Stanley Greaves
prepared for a nonstop trip of 4,538
miles from New York to Kaunas, Lithuania. They expect to take off as soon as weather is favorable.

BOYD AND COMPANIONS
LAND AT ST. MARC, HAITI
PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, June 12.—(AP)—Captain J. Errol Boyd and two companions, flying non-stop from New York to Port-Au-Prince, landed near St. Marc, Haiti, tonight. Reports here said all were safe.

Captain Boyd took off from New York Sunday on a good-will flight to this island accompanied by his co-
pilot, Robert G. Lyon, and H. P.
Dwyer.

They expected to set down their ship, the Columbia, veteran trans-Atlantic craft, at Port Au Prince after about 24 hours' flying over the 2,471-
mile route, two days, and fly back

Massachusetts to Vote On Repeal Move Today

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 12.—
(AP)—Governor Joseph B. Ely laid
the blame for "the development of rack-eting" at the door of the eighteenth amendment as he urged citizens of Massachusetts to get out and vote on the prohibition issue at tomorrow's special election.

At tomorrow's balloting three delegates will be elected from each of 15 districts throughout the state. The ballot will contain two sets of names,
one favoring repeal and the other retention of the prohibition measure.

Expressing the hope the eighteenth amendment would be wiped from the constitution by January 1, 1934, Governor Ely said:

"I would be the last to advocate
to the people that they should sell their souls for revenue, but we are already heavily mortgaged to the racketeer."

MOTION TO ACQUIT LILLY RULED OUT; WEST, SMITH CLASH

Ex-DeKalb Chief, Accused
of Larceny, Ordered to Defend Himself; State
Completes Testimony.

Overruling a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal, Judge
John B. Hutchison in DeKalb superior court Monday ordered A. W.
Lilly, former DeKalb county chief of police, to proceed with defending himself on charges of larceny growing out of the liquor raid on O. B. Wright's Johnson road home. The Lilly defense indicated through its first witnesses that it will attempt to prove the articles Lilly is alleged to have stolen were in his possession prior to the raid.

The trial, which drew large crowds
to Judge Hutchison's courtroom, was marked by spirited clashes between Solicitor General Henry H. West, of the Oconee circuit, acting as special prosecutor, and Solicitor General
Claude C. Smith, of the Stone Mountain circuit, appearing as a witness for Lilly. Judge Hutchison, being called upon to halt a heated controversy. The judge stopped the argument between the solicitors when he told them they had to settle their differences outside of his courtroom.
There was no resumption of the argument after court recessed for the day.

State Completes Testimony.
The state completed presentation of its direct testimony and evidence during Monday's session, offering a number of witnesses in an attempt to prove that Lilly removed a convex
gold-framed mirror from the Wright
home during the raid and that later
the mirror was seen on the walls of the Lilly home.

Lilly is being tried on an indictment specifically charges him
with larceny from the house.

That Lilly will attempt to prove that the mirror is his own property
was indicated when the defense called
A. Stein, Atlanta dog breeder, who testified that he visited Lilly's home in March of 1931 and the mirror was in the house at that time. On cross-examination the prosecution brought out that through Lilly's instrument DeKalb county had purchased a police dog from Stein for $200.

The clashes between Major Smith
and Mr. West began when the Stone Mountain solicitor accused the special prosecutor of asking him questions in an unbecomingly manner.

The two officials engaged in a heated debate, Mr. West insisting that Major Smith sought to give an evasive
answer to a question designed to place
in the record whether or not Lilly
removed the articles from the Wright
home during the raid and that later
Major Smith was present at the time of the raid.

After considerable argument Mr.
West appealed to Judge Hutchison and the court instructed Major Smith
to answer directly.

Major Smith then said that he had not instructed Lilly to remove anything except liquor.

At a hearing on the possessory warrant, Major Smith assumed "full responsibility" for the raid.

Blast Victim Dies, Another Near Death

John D. Jeffries, 52, of 1648
Stokes avenue, injured in a chemical blast Saturday at the Loe-Apte Company on Produce Row, died today.

J. B. Gelissen, of 1095 Briarcliff
road, another victim of the explosion,
was reported to be in a critical condition at the Loe-Apte hospital. He was seriously burned. Gelissen took a turn for the worse Monday and little hope is held for his recovery, it was said. Others who were injured
by the blast were reported recovering.

A blood transfusion with his wife
as donor was resorted to Sunday and Jeffries was kept alive for many hours
under an oxygen tent at the Georgia Baptist hospital. He grew steadily weaker, however, and died at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Jeffries is survived by his wife; a son, Oris P. Jeffries; his mother, Mrs. Sarah Jeffries, of Dallas, Texas;
and two brothers, C. L. Jeffries, of Dallas, and Wallace Jeffries, of Brownville, Tenn. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Awtry & Lowndes.

U. S. Population Increase Is Fast Approaching Zero

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE.
WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—
With the birth rate now at the lowest level on record and statistics indicating an accelerated decline during 1933, the movement toward a stationary or a declining population in the United States seems to be gaining speed.

The decline of population growth
which statisticians have estimated
would be reached by 1950 or 1960,
may be arrived at, the experts now believe, before the former date. Predictions of a population of 140,000,000
in 1940, when the next census is taken have been revised downward to 131,000,000.

Most striking result of the decline
in the birth rate, says Wilfrid C.
Smith, assistant statistician of the division of vital statistics, is the great increase in the proportion of older persons in the population. The number of people more than 65 years old increased 34 per cent between 1920
and 1930, while in the last two years
the rate of this increase has been considerably greater.

Smith believes that this trend toward a stable and an older population presents to the statesmen and industrial leaders of today and of the future a national economic problem of tremendous significance, in the necessity of gearing the industrial machine

and of controlling the agricultural output to meet the consumer demands
of a possibly declining population and
of an older people.

Preliminary figures received by the bureau of the census indicate that
for 1932 the birth rate for each 1,000
of population in 1932 fell below 18,
the lowest on record. In 1915 the rate was 25.1. The indicated rate for 1932 is about 11 to 12 per cent
below the rate of 1915. The decline that for 1931, and prospects are that the 1933 decrease will be even greater,
due largely to a sharp decline in marriages in 1932.

Economic conditions, it is held,
have accelerated a downward trend
in the number of births which had already become marked in the decade
before 1932. During the last 10 years the birth rate has fallen nearly 25 per cent while the death rate has remained almost the same. In 1921
it was 11.6 per thousand, and in 1931 it was 11.1 per thousand.

The decline in the birth rate has been most pronounced in the cities.
Ten years ago there were enough
children in the large cities to maintain the city population stationary
without accessions from the outside.
Now there is a deficit of about 25 per cent.

F.D.R. Threatens to Veto Any Veterans' Increase

Adjournment Plans Strike Snag as House, Senate Disagree; President Is Adamant; Will Read Veto Message in Person.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(UP)— President Roosevelt bluntly informed congressional leaders at the White House late tonight that he would not surrender on his compromise plan for reducing veterans' compensations.

Furthermore he warned he would veto the independent officers bill if it came to his desk carrying the Congressional amendment limiting Mr. Roosevelt's power to cut ex-soldiers' allowances.

The president tonight met with the senate conferees who came to consult with him after they had failed to agree on the measure earlier in the evening. They would have to fight
the issue out in congress.

Director of the Bureau of Lewi, Donlave, who has a part in framing the administration veterans' plan, also
was present at the conference.

Asked if Mr. Roosevelt had changed his position in this vital piece of legislation, the young administration
official snapped out:

"Hell, no."
So determined is the president to save this important part of his economy program that it was reported
after the conference he was considering delivering his veto message to congress in person in event the Congressional plan was approved.

Also, it was said, Mr. Roosevelt may take his case to the people in a plea for support during the present emergency.

With five hours of debate already arranged for the industry bill and still more to follow on the $3,000,000
supply bill the conferees on the independent officers appropriation bill
tonight plumped the veterans' issue
back into the senate jam.

The senate conferees went into a meeting with the house delegation
determined to seek an end to the veterans' compensation worked out between the house and President Roosevelt,
the issue would be brought back for a vote in the senate. Unable to obtain consensus by the house delegation,
the senate conferees withdrew to ask instructions from the senate tomorrow.

In addition to votes on these issues, and the likelihood of considerable talk on each, another vote—and more debate—apparently was in store on the Glass-Steagall banking bill conference report which has been set for first consideration tomorrow in the house.

President Roosevelt, apparently determined to seek an end to the veterans' compensation dispute that stands in the path of adjournment,
tonight sat down with administration
leaders in the fight on Capitol Hill
to discuss the deadlock.

Literally rushing from the capitol
to the White House, five senators and

Treasurer Hamilton Ad-

But Withholds Reason.

Leadership of the world has been taken by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, according to Postmaster-General James A. Farley here, who, after tables of official Washington, paused in Atlanta a few minutes Monday afternoon on their way from Washington to Swannsea, Tenn., where the postal head will be given the honorary degree of doctor of laws by the University of the South.

Genial and hearty with the famous Farley smile flashing, Mr. Far-

giant Curtiss Condor of Eastern Air Transport, Inc., at 6 o'clock. It was his first airplane flight and the postal
chief was about to discuss travel,
asserting that he probably would use airplanes quite a bit in his future travels.

Ex-Premier of Spain Forms New Cabinet

MADRID, June 12.—(UP)—Manuel Azana, political leader who resigned last week over differences with President Niceto Alcala Zamora, succeeded today in organizing a new ministry.

AMERICANS FEAR BRUSH DEFAULT ON JUNE PAYMENT

Commons May Be Asked
to Decide Delicate Question After U. S. Refuses 10 Per Cent Offer.

LONDON, June 13.—(Tuesday).—
Complete default of Great Britain's war debt payment due to the United States Thursday was a possibility laid early today by American sources to be probable unless a midnight cabinet session reached a new decision.

The break-up of the cabinet meeting
brought no information as to the decision.

Hot on the heels of Prime Minister MacDonald's demand before the world economic conference for the immediate settlement of the war debts question,
the cabinet met in an emergency
meeting shortly before midnight tonight
to deal with the problem of what to do about the installment due to the United States on Thursday.

At the same time it was revealed
by a high French official that Great Britain had tentatively offered to pay
the United States 10 per cent of the amount due, but that this proposal
was rejected by the Washington government.

The 10 per cent offer corresponds with the basis of settlement on German reparations payments which was arranged by the Lausanne conference
last July, and thus agreed with Mr.
MacDonald's declaration before the plenary conference today that the Lausanne settlement must be "completed."

Introduction of the debt issue,
barred from the agenda of the economic conference by Premier Mac-Donald at the opening sitting today,
was strongly resented by members of the American delegation, some of whom called it "bad taste" while others characterized it in stronger terms.

That the war debt question is extremely urgent to work upon the immediate development is expected within a few hours was evidenced by the fact that the prime minister and members of his government went directly from an official banquet to conference delegations tonight to the offices in Downing Street for a hasty consultation.

The cabinet, it was presumed, went immediately to work upon the terms of a deal dealing with the debt which is to be dispatched shortly to Washington.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, will make an announcement in the house of commons tomorrow, revealing the government's policy with regard to the debt installment which falls due the following
day.

The emergency meeting of the British cabinet adjourned after half an hour's sitting, without taking any decisions as far as could be learned.

The situation therefore remained obscure, as no announcement was made, and the position of the British government on the debt matter is not likely to be disclosed until Chancellor Chamberlain speaks in the commons
tomorrow.

The emergency cabinet session followed hot on the heels of Prime Minister MacDonald's demand before the world economic conference for the immediate settlement of the war debts
question.

At the same time it was revealed
by a high French official that Great Britain had tentatively offered to pay
the 10 per cent of the war debts

Wine Bill Put Over Until Next Session

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., June 12.—
(AP)—Herbert Felkel, St. Augustine
silk and democratic leader, today
announced he had wired President Roosevelt that he could not bring himself to leave the newspaper business and therefore would be unable to accept the post as collector of internal revenue for Florida. Felkel is publisher of the St. Augustine Record.

Felkel's nomination to the post was confirmed by the senate Saturday night.

Illiterate Man Draws School Board Salary

SCRANTON, Pa., June 12.—(AP)—
Michael Wolowicz, who has served as a director of the Dickinson city school board for 17 years and who has filled the office of board treasurer for a long time, testified in court today that he cannot read or write and that he never went to school a day in his life.

As treasurer of the board he receives a salary of $4,000 annually.
Wolowicz was testifying in the action begun by taxpayers to oust
six of the seven members of the Dickinson city board.

MCDONALD MOVE ON DEBTS RAPPED BY U. S. DELEGATES

McReynolds Calls Introduction of Debt Issue
'Inappropriate' and Others Agree.

By F. G. VOSBURGH.
LONDON, June 12.—(AP)—Outspoken criticism of Premier Mac-Donald's injection of the explosive issue at the very outset of the world economic conference, from which the topic was barred, was uttered tonight
in the ranks of the American delegates.

"I think it was inappropriate to bring up the issue of the war debts
at this time, inasmuch as it is a subject excluded from the agenda,"
said Sam D. McElvench, member of the delegation, after the Americans returned to their hotel.

Others expressed similar views.
Ralph W. Morrison, another member of the Washington group, said:
"Except for a few spots it was a good speech," obviously referring to the deal dealing with debts.

Cordell Hull, secretary of state, in a statement carefully avoided mentioning Mr. MacDonald's reference to debts. He praised the British and expressed optimism. The chief of the delegation told correspondents as he left the conference hall that he was sticking to the subjects on the program and was making no comment
on debts.

Privately it was said at delegation
headquarters that Prime Minister MacDonald displayed poor taste and was likely to aggravate the already stiffening American feeling against debt modification.

The belief was widely held that the prime minister started the conference
on the wrong foot.

Some concern was expressed lest
the conference chairman's speech excite congress and interfere with President Roosevelt's plan for immediate adjournment.

At the same time the United States
delegates expressed the opinion that Mr. MacDonald may have felt that reference to the debts was imperative
for British consumption.

Important administration officials and one airline executive as they paused in Atlanta in an airplane flight from Washington to Chattanooga Monday afternoon. In the center is Postmaster General James A. Farley, who is on his way to Sewanee, Tenn., to receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws from the University of the South. Others, left to right, are Joseph C. O'Mahoney, first assistant postmaster general; Harlee Branch, assistant to Mr. Farley; E. E. Hurja, administration assistant in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Captain Thomas B. Doe, president of Eastern Air Transport, Inc., over whose lines the party flew to Atlanta. half cases were confiscated and John Hagan told to report to make bond and the Piedmont Train Gardens, at Piedmont road and Cheshire road, where 15 bottles were confiscated and O. J. Guthrie told to make bond. All of these raids were made under warrants.

A fifth warrant served on Piedmont road failed to reveal any beer, the proprietor telling the officers that he had "just sold out." The officers said they would continue to make cases will raid at all places in the county selling the brew.

All Pig 'n' Whistle stands inside the city limits have obtained licenses to sell beer.

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, of the Atlanta superior court circuit, said after hearing of Mr. McClelland's decision that he was under orders from the five superior court judges to send all misdemeanor cases to the criminal court of Atlanta and added that he would continue to do so if more beer cases are made. Sheriff James L. Lowry was out of the city on vacation but it was presumed that in view of Solicitor McClelland's decision not to prosecute he and his deputies would make no additional beer cases.

In a formal statement to the public, Solicitor McClelland said that his decision was made because he fears "that further prosecution of these cases will affect the efficiency of the court in dealing with other forms of law violations."

Mr. McClelland asserted that he had tried two cases and juries had speedily acquitted defendants in both instances, adding that in his opinion the persons awaiting trial are no more guilty than those who already are acquitted. The solicitor reiterated an earlier announced belief that the cases should be tried but made it plain that despite this belief they would not be tried.

The court official indicated that he had conferred with Judge Jesse M. Wood presiding over the court before making his decision as his statement declared that the pending cases were being withdrawn with the approval of the court. Judge Wood made no statement.

The statement of Solicitor McClelland follows:

"The recent cases brought into this

of congress, Mr. Farley said "no single piece of legislation was of greatest importance and that every measure fit as a spoke in the wheel of the new deal."

He added that the courageous and swift action of the president in the banking crisis, armaments and war debts had established him as the leader of the world.

"Other leaders," he said, "have fallen into line and are not only willing to follow—but are anxious to follow the lead of Mr. Roosevelt, in restoring prosperity to the world."

The "chief," as he is called by his intimates, said there are present and definite signs of the new deal working and that business is on the up-grade.

With Mr. Farley, in the party were Captain Thomas B. Doe, president of Eastern Air Transport; Harlee Branch, assistant to the postmaster general; E. E. Hurja, administration assistant in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Joseph C. O'Mahoney, first assistant postmaster general.

At the field to greet the party were Major John S. Cohen, editor of the Journal; J. D. Robinson, of the First National bank; Arthur Lucas, of others. The party reached Chattanooga at 7:21 o'clock Monday night, will return to Atlanta today and take off within a few minutes for Washington.

At the field for the sale of beer, charged the violation of a state law, and were palpable violations of the law. I felt then, as I feel now, that they should have been tried and prosecuted.

"Two of these cases I did try in a most earnest way, but juries composed of good citizens of the county very promptly acquitted the defendants."

"The defendants in the remaining cases are in no sense more guilty than the others that were acquitted. Every defendant charged with the sale of beer, has defended on the ground that he had purchased a license, giving him authority to sell beer, and he felt when he was doing the thing he was licensed to do. He was not committing a crime. This placed one division of our local government in the position of prosecuting a citizen, when another branch of the local government sanctioned his acts through collection of a license fee."

"Fearing that further prosecution of these cases, with similar results, will affect the efficiency of the court in dealing with other forms of law violations, I have reached the conclusion that further prosecution at the present time would serve no good purpose."

"All of the pending beer cases will be withdrawn from the trial calendar, with the approval of the court, and prosecution of this class of cases will not be resumed, unless the public welfare demands it."

Respectfully,
"JOHN S. McCLELLAND,
Solicitor, Criminal Court of Atlanta."

Atlanta Post Bond.
Phil Rosenbaum, of Atlanta, arrested at Greensboro, Ga., on a charge of having 20 cases of beer in a private machine, posted $100 bond with the sheriff's office here Monday after Solicitor-General John A. Boykin had wired a request to Green county authorities that he be allowed to post the bond.

The second application since the 32 beer law went into effect for a charter to manufacture beer was filed in superior court Monday by Sam A. Massell, attorney for Farley Berman, of Birmingham, and David S. Block, of Baltimore. It is proposed to capitalize the brewery at 5,000 shares of stock without par value and to manufacture, buy, sell, bottle, barrel and distribute lager, beer, malt, cereal and other beverages. The name of the firm would be known as Liberty Brewing Company, and with the right to open branches outside of Fulton county. Names of several Atlanta associates do not appear in the petition.

ward Nome, Alaska, on one of the most dangerous legs of his lone air journey around the world.

When he started toward American soil, it was 8:15 p. m., Moscow time Monday night (12:15 p. m. eastern standard time Monday). This was 9 days 8 hours and 45 minutes after his departure from New York on the first solo attempt to circle the globe.

Mattern, more than three days before the Post-Gazette round-the-world mark of eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes, is seeking now to establish a solo flight mark which will compare favorably with the Post-Gazette figures.

NOME SCANS GRAY SKIES FOR MATTERN'S ARRIVAL

NOME, Alaska, June 12.—(P)—Awaiting the appearance of Jimmie Mattern on his globe-circling dash, this settlement of 1,500 persons scanned cloud-heavy skies today and watched for banks roll over the jagged ice of Bering sea in unfavorable flying weather.

But Nome was not particularly worried about Mattern, for he is remembered as having encountered Alaska's Bering sea fogs in flying a tri-motored refueling ship over the territory two years ago when Reg L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones, Fort Worth, Texas fliers, attempted a refueling non-stop flight from Seattle to Tokyo.

SPANISH OCEAN FLIERS LAND NEAR HAVANA

HAVANA, Cuba, June 12.—(UP)—The Spanish trans-Atlantic aviators, Captain Mariano Barberan and Lieutenant Joaquin Collar, landed at Columbia field, outside Havana, at 3:15 p. m. this evening (8:15 p. m. E. D. T.), from Camaguey, in the extreme eastern end of Cuba.

They left Camaguey at 2:22 p. m. (3:22 p. m. E. D. T.), after refueling and resting there last night, at the end of their remarkable non-stop flight over the Atlantic from Seville, Spain. They are on a good way trip to Mexico.

More than 10,000 persons were at the field to cheer them and they were carried off on the shoulders of several to the aviation school building. Spanish Ambassador Luisiano Lopez Ferrer was the first to shake hands with his two countrymen.

Hundreds were at the airfield to greet the fliers.

ORBITELLO, Italy, June 12.—(P)—Aviation Minister General Italo Balbo took active command today of the Italian trans-Atlantic squadron which is to take off on a flight by easy stages to the Chicago fair Wednesday at 7 a. m.

General Aldo Pellegrini, who trained the participants in the proposed flight for a year and a half, officially handed over the squadron in the presence of the full expedition of 95 men. Twenty-four planes are to take part in the flight.

The airport chaplain blessed the fliers and their ships as they were lined up on the runway along the shore of the lagoon here.

responsibility" for the seizure of the Wright property, asserting at that time that he ordered Lilly to "take care" of the property to keep spectators from molesting it.

The state presented its direct evidence through Wright and a number of others. Wright, recently released from the chain gang, where he served part of a term growing out of the raid, declared that Lilly took the mirror and other articles from his home.

Lawrence Belleville, who was a special officer at the time of the raid, corroborated Wright's statements and quoted Lilly as saying, as he removed the mirror: "Here's something they won't get."

John E. Roberts, special bailiff, testified he served a possessory warrant sworn out by Mrs. Wright on Lilly and at the time of service he saw the mirror hanging in the home. E. Cooper, former county policeman, and Mrs. Cooper also testified they saw the mirror in the Lilly home. Mrs. Cooper adding that she saw pocket books and several dresses which she quoted Mrs. Lilly as saying "came out of the Wright house."

Lilly is expected to take the stand today in his own behalf. It is not likely that the case will go to the jury until some time Wednesday.

Solicitor-general West is being assisted in the prosecution by William Schley Howard, Wright's attorney. The Lilly defense is being handled by John Wesley Weekes and C. Murphy Candler Jr.

Swift Lauds Roosevelt For Reviving Business

CHICAGO, June 12.—(P)—H. H. Swift, vice president of Swift & Company, in an address today said that business had in the past three months and that credit for it was due President Roosevelt.

The meat packer, appearing before the convention of the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers, said that "the initiative, energy and courage of the president in the emergency of his willingness to pioneer in the hope of building a new and better order of things, command respect and admiration."

However, as a remedy to the present economic situation Swift outlined a three-fold program which he said would be necessary for a return of prosperity. Its points were:

- 2.—Lower taxation.
- 3.—A better international understanding and the removal of trade barriers.

She wanted it, she said, to give her sons—Edward B. Jr. and John R. II—"something to interest themselves in."

"I have had this idea in mind for several weeks—ever since it appeared the Post would go," Mrs. McLean said, adding, however, that she did not intend to put up the Hope diamond this time if it could be avoided.

Diver, Hurt in Ill-Fated Gold Quest, Loses Long Fight Against Death

NEW YORK, June 12.—(P)—A tragic episode in the search for gold aboard the sunken British cruiser Hampshire developed today with the news of the death of Samuel Mansfield, one of three men injured at the bottom of the sea beside the ship about two months ago.

In accordance with his last wish, his body was cremated and the ashes scattered on the sea over the spot where the Hampshire lay.

Mansfield, a wrecking engineer whose home was reported to be in Virginia, suffered a head injury in the same accident that caused the hair of Charles Courtney, New York master locksmith, to turn several shades whiter.

Courtney returned to New York from Berlin a month ago and Mansfield had expected to make the trip back to the United States with him. At the last moment, however, German surgeons attending Mansfield decided he was too ill for the voyage.

Subsequent information from his bedside came only at infrequent intervals. It told of his fight to live, of the development of spinal meningitis and finally a private cablegram came announcing his death.

"Mansfield dead," the cable read. "His last wish to throw his ashes over spot of Hampshire complied."

The message was sent from Amsterdam, Holland, a week ago, but was disclosed only today. It contained no other details of the death of the man adventure led to a fatal accident at the bottom of the North sea.

Mansfield, Courtney and Harold Costello, an Italian diver, were trapped at the bottom of the sea beside the Hampshire just a few days after they had salvaged $15,000 in gold sovereigns from the wrecked warship.

Shortly after they had descended in search of more treasure, a powerful current pinioned them to the side of the wreck and held them fast for 40 minutes or more. When the current subsided they were pulled slowly to the surface. When it was found that all three were injured, anchors were weighed hurriedly and a dash made for Germany. Mansfield was placed in a hospital in Koenigsburg and at first it was believed that he had suffered a broken neck. After some weeks in the hospital, he was taken to Berlin for treatment by German specialists.

Cooler Weather Is Forecast Here

Thunder showers, bringing somewhat cooler weather, are expected in Atlanta today, according to George Mindling, United States meteorologist. The mercury, he said, will range from 66 to 82 degrees.

Monday the mercury started from a low reading of 72 degrees and reached 90. A few more showers were reported over the state, but they were of no consequence, he declared. The drought Monday was pretty well broken in the state, and it was over in Atlanta. Atlanta, Monday, had received 2.64 inches of rain since the first of the month, putting things in the excess column to the tune of 1.14 inches above normal rainfall for the period.

BANK LEGISLATION PUSHED BY SOLONS

Leaders Add Glass-Steagall Bill To Last-Minute Program.

By NATHAN ROBERTSON.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(P)—Faced with a growing revolt against adjournment of congress without legislation to insure bank deposits, congressional leaders today added the Glass-Steagall bank bill to the last-minute program, after an agreement between house and senate conferees.

Almost a third of the house members had signed a pledge to vote against adjournment until the bank reform measure was passed when word was flashed through the capitol that at last the conferees had reached an agreement.

The agreement virtually assured approval of the legislation for which hope of enactment at this session had been abandoned only two days ago. For four hours countless representatives of the two houses worked in a hot committee room to compromise differences. Near the end they consulted with President Roosevelt by telephone and a few minutes later emerged smiling to announce the long-sought understanding.

Under the compromise bill, deposits up to $25,000 would be insured beginning January 1, 1934, and the permanent insurance system would go into effect the following July.

Branch banking, as in the senate bill, would be permitted to national banks in states which specifically permit their own institutions to have state-wide branch banking. These were the two big controversial points. In addition the bill carries far-reaching legislation to curb the use of federal reserve credit for speculative purposes, as well as revision of the national banking laws in other ways.

Eventually, it will bring a unified national banking system, if approved in its present form, and not modified later.

Deposits would be insured through a corporation composed of the comptroller of the currency and two members appointed by the president.

Beginning January 1 deposits up to $25,000 would be insured in all banks, including federal reserve members and non-member state banks, provided they were certified by state authorities and approved by the corporation after examination.

After July 1, 1934, all deposits up to $10,000 would be fully guaranteed; deposits from $10,000 to $50,000 insured 75 per cent, and deposits above $50,000 insured up to 50 per cent.

The corporation would be capitalized by a subscription of $150,000,000 from the treasury; one-half the reserves of federal reserve member banks, about $175,000,000, and one-half of 1 per cent of the deposit liabilities of insured banks.

In addition, it could borrow up to twice its original capitalization, estimated at about $500,000,000. All banks that had not been admitted to the federal reserve system by 1936 would have to withdraw from the insurance system. It is this provision that led to predictions of a unified banking system.

None of the conferees was happier than Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, who has labored for two years to get his bill through. He had given up hope last week.

Asked if the bill would result in a single bank system, the Virginian replied smiling: "That's the only thing that appeals to me in the insurance of deposits provisions."

Other important provisions of the bill would:

Give the federal reserve board broad power to control the use of its credit.

Require the divorcement of security affiliates from national banks within a year.

Require private banks to give up

COUNSEL ADVISED MITCHELL'S ACTION

Official Says He Did Not Regard $1,800,000 Payment as Personal Income

NEW YORK, June 12.—(P)—Testifying for the defense today in the trial of Charles E. Mitchell on charges of income tax evasion, Garrard B. Winston, counsel to directors of the National City Company, said he advised the officers that the payment of $1,800,000 to them could not be regarded as "personal income."

Mitchell's failure to report in 1929 receipt of $666,666.67, his share of the money distributed from the company's management fund, is the basis for one of the charges of tax evasion for which he has been on trial for more than a month. The National City Company is an affiliate of the National City Bank, of which Mitchell was chairman of the board.

"In the late autumn of 1929," Winston told the federal court jury, "I advised officers of the National City Company that I regarded payments from the management fund that year as not proper deductions from the company on its income tax report, and that therefore it of course followed that the payments could not be regarded as personal income by them."

He said he conferred with Harry W. Forbes, a former partner of the company who also advised Mitchell on his returns, before concluding the bank chairman was not required to declare his share of the fund as income.

Winston, a former under-secretary of the treasury, was questioned by Max D. Steuer, Mitchell's counsel. He said that as a member of the board of the National City Company and as its counsel he wrote the resolutions that formed the management fund and governed its distribution.

Mayor Key Not to Call Extra Council Session

Mayor James L. Key Monday said there could be no special council session to consider city finances and to launch a definite program of public improvements from funds which the municipality will attempt to obtain from the federal government.

The mayor contended that council meets Monday in regular session and that any program should be studied carefully and should include all urgent pressing projects.

Councilman John A. White has sponsored a program of contemplating expenditure of about $12,000,000, including funds for a new auditorium, police station, sewer and park improvements.

Key Monday pointed out that replacement of the Magnolia and Peters street viaducts and construction of an underpass at Hemphill avenue near Northside drive are other improvements that should rightfully be a part of any such program.

CONSTIPATED SCALP

Destroys Life of Hair

Constipated Scalp is a condition that afflicts eight out of ten. Yet so insidious is its onslaught that few people even know they have it. When hair starts to fall and thin out—beware! When dandruff is present—beware! When the scalp itches—beware! When the scalp is tight and dry—beware!

Constipation of the scalp is at work, working by night and day to destroy your hair!

Hair grows from the roots through a tube or shaft which opens onto the scalp. When this tube becomes clogged (constipated) with dried skin and other secretions, the hair cannot force its way through. The tube is choked against the growth of new hair. The scalp cannot eliminate waste. The scalp cannot breathe.

Don't let scalp constipation rob you of thick, luxuriant hair! Keep your scalp clean and open. Give it a chance to eliminate poisonous deposits! Massage it for only one minute each day with Krack's Hair Root Oil. This non-greasy, non-sticky oil dissolves hardened secretions. It penetrates down through the hair tubes—cleaning as it penetrates. It removes dead skin and other deposits. Krack's Hair Root Oil cleans and softens the scalp and keeps the hair tubes open, well oiled and lubricated.

In addition, it imparts lustre to the hair and keeps it in place. Stop scalp constipation today! Ask for Krack's Hair Root Oil at any drug counter.

Traffic Accidents Are Warnings In Favor of Accident Insurance

When will the traffic-accident wave claim you as a victim? Nearly every day there are warnings to you such as these:

"One dead, three hurt as trucks crash."

"Mishaps in south claim 15 lives."

"Hit by motorcycle, girl badly hurt."

All of these accidents, and many more, happened in one day only a short time ago. You never can tell—it may be today, to-morrow, or next week—but when disaster singles you out, you can depend on it that it will be when you least expect it.

Get your insurance now—while you can. After the accident it is too late.

Every day you read harrowing details of wrecks of all kinds caused by wrecking and collision of automobiles at railroad crossing and all kinds of travel and pedestrian accidents.

Do not take chances with your own comfort and the future of your wife and children. Insure yourself today!

The insurance offered you through The Atlanta Constitution is issued by the North American Accident Insurance Company, of Chicago, Ill.

This company, during the last several years, has paid to Constitution subscribers and members of their families over $160,000.

The insurance is offered to subscribers and immediate dependent members of a subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 68 on the one subscription going into the home at the small registration fee of 20 cents with application and 10 cents per month thereafter in addition to the subscription price, or $1 each per policy per year in advance, to subscribers who live in Atlanta; and to subscribers outside Atlanta and subscribers the rate is $1 per year per policy in addition to the subscription price.

The policy The Constitution offers you provides for payment of sums ranging downward from $10,000 for travel, $1,000 for auto and pedestrian deaths resulting from certain specific accidents, heavy sums for permanent injuries, and $10 weekly indemnity for total disability resulting from acidents set forth in the policy, which is at the rate of $43.33 per month.

All this for the small fee, as stated above—just about 2 1/2 cents a week, and it is offered to old and new subscribers alike.

In sending applications for insurance, the applicant must state name in full, give age and occupation, and if beneficiary is desired the full Christian name of beneficiary must be given and relationship of same to the insured.

Clever Comedy Well Presented Before Full House at Erlanger

Laughter ruled last night at the Erlanger theater, when the Peruchi Players presented "Mary's Other Husband" before an audience that not only filled every seat in the orchestra, but also the balcony.

The last row—the biggest audience the Erlanger has enjoyed for many a long day. Whatever the Peruchi Players do or do not do during their Atlanta sojourn it can always be said of them that they succeeded in filling the Erlanger, a feat not often accomplished by other stock organizations which have played there.

This comedy is one of those plays that depends upon its laughs for situation. The lines are funny, but chiefly because of the situation, they illuminate. Imagine, if you please, a wife with too much imagination. She dresses up every situation in life in one of the stock movie plots. She always invents mysterious counts and baronets, criminals and detectives and romantic heroes. One flight of her imagination has painted her husband as an inordinately successful businessman and her home correspondingly luxurious.

Then Uncle from the west announces that he is coming to visit. She has to make good on her boasts. Borrowing her neighbors' silverware, draperies and other finery. Makes her husband pose as a butler and then, when a husband on the scene becomes necessary, unveils a strange young man into assuming the role. A young man who, in imagination, is only filled every seat in the orchestra, but in reality is a young man who gives verisimilitude to married life. While the pseudo butler looks on.

Then the fiancée of the bogus husband turns up. Of course, puts the only possible construction on the situation and—more trouble. Before it is all straightened out the involvement draws in a romantic maid of all work, a professional burglar, an Irish policeman and various other human ingredients.

It is clever comedy, delightfully presented and the entire evening an exceptionally good meal of entertainment for anyone's evening.

Mary Anne Dentler is better this week than before, in the title role of "Mary's Other Husband." Mildred Peters, Klock Ryder, Mrs. C. D. Peruchi, Mr. Peruchi, Betty Crandall and others have good parts. It is a play suitable to every taste and one that everyone will like.

Between acts Walter Sheats, his orchestra and singers entertained in their usual acceptable manner.

And in every respect it was a highly successful piece of stage fare.

There will be the usual nightly performances with bazaar matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The same extremely low prices remain in effect and, judging by the size of the audience Monday night, you had all better hurry down to the box office as soon as it opens—at 10 o'clock this morning—and secure reservations. If you don't want to miss a mighty good show.

—RALPH T. JONES.

'Sign of the Cross'

Fills Five Theaters

Cecil B. DeMille's screen spectacle, "The Sign of the Cross," opened to capacity audiences Monday at the Tenth street, DeKalb, Palace, West End and Fairfax theaters. This film unfolds the glories of pagan Rome in the time of Nero. It is a panorama of the most colorful and brutal period in ancient history. The telling of the story has been placed in the hands of an exceptional cast, headed by Frederic March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert and Charles Laughton.

Today is the last opportunity patrons of the Fairfax theater will have to witness this production. However, the DeKalb and Palace theaters will continue a three-day engagement through Wednesday.

Welles' Work Praised By Cuban Congressman

MIAMI, Fla., June 12.—(P)—Summer Welles' work as American ambassador in Cuba has inspired a new confidence in the Cuban people that their tangled political and economical problems soon will be solved, Dr. Wilfredo Albanes, Cuban congressman, said here today.

Asked if revolutionary activities in Cuba had ceased, Dr. Albanes said "the general situation is quieter. The people are more confident of the future."

Ambassador Welles, is "working for the good of all Cuba in trying to solve the republic's tangled problems." Albanes, who represents oriente province in the Cuban congress, called upon General Mario G. Menocal, leader of revolutionary forces opposed to President Machado, at his home here last night, but he denied the visit had any political significance.

Macon Takes to Air For Visit to Chicago

AKRON, Ohio, June 12.—(P)—The giant airship Macon was taken aloft tonight for her fourth test flight, a 48-hour cruise over the mid west and the lower lakes, during which her officers planned to send the craft over the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago.

Ninety persons were aboard, with Captain Alger H. Dresel, her skipper, in command, and Commander S. L. Kean and Lieutenant W. Z. Zimm, merman, of the naval board of inspection, as passengers. Besides the crew a number of engineers of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, the builders, were in the ship.

PRIVILEGE TAX URGED BY SOUTH SIDE GROUP

Tax systems and the advantages of the privilege tax over the ad valorem system now in use was the subject of discussion led by J. E. Jackson Jr., Atlanta attorney, at a meeting of the South Side Civic Federation held at the city hall.

Members of the federation agreed that the present system was a "mistake" and advocated the adoption of the privilege tax. William T. Harrison, president of the federation, presided. Reports of city improvements were also made.

'Be Mine Tonight' Held Over at Buckhead

"Be Mine Tonight," the altogether charming musical romance and comedy which delighted large audiences at the Buckhead theater last week, has been held over for an additional three days this week. A capacity crowd on Monday night applauded the screen offering when the end came and scores of pleased patrons went out of their way to personally thank Manager Willis Davis for the opportunity to see it.

Jan Keipura's gorgeous tenor voice has made an undying place for itself in the memory of theatergoers by this picture, while the beauty of Magda Schneider, the little heroine, and the comedy of Sonnie Hale are also equally notable. While the scenery in the Swiss cantons is about as beautiful as can be found anywhere.

"Be Mine Tonight" will be at the Buckhead today and Wednesday and wide amusement seekers will enjoy a pleasant ride and a delightful picture in a cool theater before the engagement ends.

AMERICANS FEAR BRITISH DEFAULT ON JUNE PAYMENT

The United States 10 per cent of the $75,000,000 interest due, but that this proposal was rejected by the Washington government.

Introduction of the debt issue, barred from the agenda of the economic conference, by Prime Minister MacDonald at the opening session yesterday was strongly resented by members of the American delegation. Some called it "bad taste," while others characterized it in stronger terms.

The prime minister and other members of the cabinet were attending a dinner for conference delegates when their meeting was hastily summoned to consider the latest Washington communication regarding a British offer to make a "token payment" on the debt.

As the cabinet met, important American quarters were given clearly to understand that sentiment strongly favored abandoning plans to make any payment whatever. But until the last few hours it had been expected that at least some payment would be made.

WASHINGTON SAID WAITING FORMAL BRITISH OFFER

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(P)—The Roosevelt administration, although officially silent as the war debts issue was hauled before the London economic conference, tonight was represented as awaiting a formal British debt proposal—reported to be an offer to pay a portion of the $75,000,000 installment due.

Accompanying the offer was expected an urgent request for extensive downward revision of the debts. Such a move was foreshadowed by the emphatic demand for a slash made by Premier Ramsay MacDonald today at the opening London party.

Meanwhile, speculation increased as to the attitude of President Roosevelt toward the "publicly" tangled problems. It was known that the legality of such action has been given close study by the chief executive and his advisors.

Roosevelt To Visit Over Canadian Border

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(P)—President Roosevelt will be about a quarter mile over the Canadian border for a day and a night when he stops at his mother's home at Campobello island at the end of the Atlantic cruise, but he will be setting no precedent in this.

President Harding stopped in Canada to speak at Vancouver during his Alaskan trip. President Wilson went to Europe for the World War peace conference. In both instances the president retained full power of office.

Kiddie Revue Producer

Miss Patsy Mason, of the Fanchon and Marco producing staff, who is responsible for the remarkable Kiddie Revue now showing at the Fox theater as a benefit for the milk fund of the Scottish Rite hospital. Miss Mason has done a remarkable piece of production work with the child amateurs of Atlanta, creating an entertainment of professional polish and appeal.

SENATOR DAVIS' TRIAL SCHEDULED FOR JULY 10

NEW YORK, June 12.—(P)—United States Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, pleaded "not guilty" to a new indictment in the Moose lottery case today. Trial date was set tentatively for July 10.

The new indictment was handed up to Judge William Bondy about 10 minutes after Davis arrived in the courtroom accompanied by one of his attorneys, Joseph E. Davies, of Washington, D. C. The new indictment superseded an old indictment on which Davis was tried last fall. That trial was abortive because of the indiscretion of a juror.

BABIES' HORRID RASH STOPPED

Meyer Bared as Owner Of Washington Post

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(UP)—The mysterious new owner of the Washington Post, famous capital newspaper, was revealed tonight to be Eugene Meyer, former governor of the federal reserve board.

After keeping the capital mystified since the paper was sold at auction on June 1, it was announced tonight that Meyer was the sole stockholder of the Washington Post Publishing Company, which is operating the newspaper.

Meyer issued the following statement: "It will be my aim and purpose steadily to improve the Post and to make it an even better newspaper than it has been in the past. It will be conducted as an independent newspaper devoted to the best interests of the people of Washington and vicinity, and hopes to have their interest and support."

Planes Used to Stem Mississippi 'Hoppers'

PARICMAN, Miss., June 12.—(P)—Three airplanes went into action here to repel an invasion of grasshoppers.

Judson Jennings, prison official, said the grasshoppers were threatening the Parichman prison, a 1,000-acre farm, particularly the cotton crop.

Jennings said that at the request of prison officials three airplanes arrived this morning from the Louisiana agricultural experiment station at Tallulah.

They went to work at once, dusting the crops with calcium and arsenate and paris green from the air.

POPULATION TREND SHOWS DECREASE

Other cities which are most nearly "pure-American" have had the greatest decreases in birth rate. In San Francisco, births no longer are more numerous than deaths. In the cities under 100,000 population, there is a 10 to 15 per cent deficit in the number of births necessary to maintain a stationary population.

These developments indicate, Smith says, that the cities of the future will be dependent for their growth to an increasing extent upon the people attracted to them from the rural areas. An important factor in the decline of the city birth rate is seen in the decrease in the number of foreign-born women, who generally have more children than native-born mothers.

Governmental restrictions on immigration and the recent exodus of aliens from this country has resulted in emigrations exceeding immigrations by 130,000 in a year.

Since the farm population has a 50 per cent surplus of children necessary to maintain a stable population, the recent back-to-the-farm movement may have a temporary tendency to increase the birth rate. It is pointed out, however, that a resumption of the farm to the city movement may be expected when prosperity returns to the industrial centers.

LUPE BACK ON COAST AND IN NEW ROMANCE

BURBANK, Cal., June 12.—(P)—Lupe Velez, Mexican film and musical comedy actress, returning to Hollywood from New York after an absence of many months, plunged quickly into romantic rumors again today.

As she alighted from a plane here, she was met by her 4-year-old adopted daughter and Johnny Weissmuller, former aquatic star and now an actor. They embraced affectionately and then Lupe gasped:

"Oh, I'm glad to get back to California and my Johnny!" But they would admit nothing beyond friendship.

MISSISSIPPI COURT QUITS FOR SUMMER

JACKSON, Miss., June 12.—(P)—The Mississippi supreme court recessed for the summer today after handing down a long list of decisions which virtually cleared the tribunal's docket of all cases.

The court, sitting en banc, denied to Tom Caraway, Jackson county negro under death sentence for an attack on a white woman, a suggestion of trial error, thus removing the last legal avenue of escape for the condemned man.

In Georgia's Fields and Streams

By H. A. CARTER

NIGHT SOUNDS.

Those of you accustomed to the flood of electric light and a supper served hot from the plates of your stove; the deep if somewhat warm comfort of your favorite easy chair; and the various sounds issuing from the speaker of your (or your neighbor's) radio, may think that the comforts of civilization are a great boon to tired humanity. They are, without doubt. But there is one thing that we are prone to overlook, and that is recreation away from the benefits of city life. Confusion exists in some minds about the exact meanings of relaxation and recreation. Recreation is the thing I am urging for those that are tired of mere relaxation.

Let me tell you about some of the things that you will hear when you go on an overnight trip to the mountains or to some fishing hole that you have heard of. Believe me, there is nothing that will take your mind away from your worries as completely as listening to the night sounds of Georgia woods.

You will get out of your car and pitch a tent just at dusk. You will pump up the air mattress, and get your bed ready, and then you will eat a supper of twist bread, fried fish and baked-in-mud potatoes, with a little fruit from the farm across the lake. And the aroma of that coffee will beat that of any other coffee in the world. After supper, you will just sit. Sit and listen.

If the moon is shining, you may have the good fortune to hear the mockingbirds in a night-time serenade. There will probably be some whippoorwills and chuck-will's-widows singing their weirdly beautiful songs. There are bound to be frogs, too. If you care to, you can take a flash light and explore a bit, and place the calls of the different frogs. There will perhaps be a rustle in the leaves across the fire from you; it will be a field mouse or deer mouse investigating the brilliant mystery of that camp fire. And that quivering call you hear from time to time will probably be a screech owl hunting through the night hours for those elusive mice. If there is a breeze, you may have a little trouble detecting these slight noises, because the pine needles amplify the sounds of the slightest zephyr. You may hear the splash of a frog in the lake as it leaps to escape the hunting water snakes, or the flashing bill of the great blue heron.

And if you are not already nodding by the time you have heard these sounds, it won't be long before you knock the ashes out of your pipe and sleep the sleep of a refreshed soul.

Note: Another article by Mr. Carter will be printed in Wednesday's Constitution.

WAGE AND PURCHASE CONTRAST IS SHOWN

Striking comparisons between 1932 and 1929 figures for wages and for purchases by the Central of Georgia were made by H. D. Pollard in a statement published Monday. Purchases in 1932 were only one-third of those in 1929, while wages were only a little more than one-half of those four years ago, he says.

In 1929 the Central of Georgia had more than 8,000 employees whose annual wages for that year were more than $12,000,000. In 1932 it had less than 4,700 employees, whose annual wages were $6,700,000. Had the road's 1932 earnings for handling freight and passengers been as good as in 1929 it could have given employment to 3,000 men and women more than it had on its 1932 payrolls—and its employees would have had $5,300,000 more dollars to put back into circulation.

In 1929 the Central of Georgia spent $4,824,000 for purchases of materials and supplies—most of this be-

CRIMINAL ACTION SEEN IN AIR CRASH

Prosecutor's Office Indicates Charges May Be Preferred in Deaths.

CHICAGO, June 12.—(P)—Evidence that authorities said might lead to prosecution on charges of criminal negligence was reported today in inquiries into the crash of a World's Fair sight-seeing plane that killed seven men and two women.

Assistant State's Attorney Don M. Long told a coroner's inquest in the city hall of suburban Glenview, near where the huge amphibian plane crashed and burst into flames, he had information the ship was not in proper condition when it took off yesterday from Lake Michigan at the exposition grounds.

"I have a report that the pilot, Carl Vickery, had trouble in getting the plane off the water," Long said, "and that he immediately headed the plane toward the home landing field, Palwaukee airport, knowing it was in need of repairs."

"If this is true, it will be action for criminal negligence in carrying passengers."

Of that time, however, he would be in the air only three or four hours.

Two of the bodies, charred by flames that destroyed the plane, were unidentified tonight, leading to criticism of the flying company by Deputy Coroner Stephan Kolonowski, in charge of investigating air accidents for Cook county.

"Every aviation company," he declared, "should obtain the names and addresses of all passengers taken in the air. There should be strict laws covering that point, and they should be enforced strictly."

Duncan Hodges, manager of the World's Fair seaplane ramp, said Vickery took the load of passengers aloft after looking carefully at the water and deciding it was not too rough. In attempting to land a few minutes later a蓬蓬 and a wing of the plane were damaged. Vickery zoomed the plane away toward the airport.

In addition to Vickery, the identified dead were Harrington E. Jacobs, of Wheeling, Ill., mechanic; Edward Fay, 30, of Chicago; Stephanie Ogorek, 20, of Chicago; Edward G. Schaller, 22, of Storm Lake, Iowa; Joseph G. Robinson, 21, of New York; and Mrs. Ida Goodwin, 47, of Hewlett, Long Island, New York.

Fay and Miss Ogorek had been reconciled at the World's Fair yesterday after a quarrel. Their bodies were cremated clasped in each other's arms, as they were found in the cabin of the plane.

ing spent with firms, merchants and dealers of its territory. In 1932 its purchases were only $1,628,000. It is so difficult to give a party that is different that I want to let you in on this. It's a splendid way to entertain and there will never be a dull moment at your party.

First you decorate the house with attractively cut Jinkys. From the five lovely colors that your Jinky papers come in you can work out a pretty color scheme. String the cut Jinkys from the light fixtures across the room just as you used to do with paper streamers. Paste them to the window panes. They will look charming.

One of the best ways to bring a new note into the party is to let your guests come dressed as Jinkys. It's lots of fun to work out a Jinky costume. Every one will be different just as every Jinky you cut is different.

There are so many games that can be played with Jinkys that I hardly know which to tell you about. Of course the best is to have your own Jinky contest and see who can cut the best Jinky. There must be a reward for the best and a booby prize for the worst. Next see who can cut the funniest Jinky. You can make up your own games if you like.

Your refreshments may be carried out in Jinky style, too. Open face sandwiches decorated to represent Jinkys with vari-colored mayonnaise are good as well as pretty. Cakes iced in the same manner carry out the motif.

Your Loan and YOUR COLLATERAL

OCCASIONALLY someone comments to the effect that banks are demanding unreasonable security or collateral for loans which they make. I wonder whether sensible men give much weight to such statements.

Let me repeat once again that banks are not only willing but anxious to lend money. It is their major source of income. All they ask is reasonable assurance that the depositors' money is safe.

When the borrower posts collateral, generally stocks or bonds, such security is naturally subject to market fluctuations. Consequently there must be value beyond the amount of the loan, to take care of any downward change. The amount of this margin is determined in some measure by the character of the security. A highly speculative stock may change very radically—a more stable bond will require less margin.

Sometimes a man will post a thousand dollar bond as collateral for a three hundred dollar loan. Later he foolishly remarks to a friend—"I put up $1,000 to get $300 at the bank today." True, he did, but not because the bank required it. Rather it was because that was the smallest unit which he had, to use as security.

It is a pity that people will indulge in foolish talk which does nobody any good. Meet your banker half way and you will find him a real human being more than anxious to help, if he can. To him the success of the customer is the success of the bank.

SECKATARY HAWKINS

BEYOND THE DOOR
by Carol Brown

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
Frederick Von Veb is stabbed to death in his top floor quarters in an old studio building while Brent head of an art firm, Mathewson, another artist, and Sprague, Von Veb's neighbor, chat for three minutes outside his door after leaving him alone. In the clay mud of the studio he has been modeling is a dagger which Papa Marat, who has a restaurant in the basement, says he found. Then Virginia Manning, the fourth door neighbor, has been trying to finish a panel for Brent's inspection. He is interrupted first by Von Veb's complaining of the noisy singing of four college youngsters, satisfied the Monks, in the studio beneath Manning's. Then Virginia notices in from the fire escape. She says she quarreled with Von Veb while posing for him, then went down to the Monks, but left because of the actions of one of the boys. Manning goes to phone Brent but won't be ready until Brent already has started on the stairs old Dan, the janitor, tells Manning Von Veb is dead and starts him by adding, "And you're the man that did it." Why, he doesn't know, but Manning feels Brent is Dan's presence that he has been out all evening, although he has been out only to dine at Marat's. Dan knows this Papa Marat, once a roving newspaper correspondent, gets the murder story exclusively and sells it to a morning paper. Later Dan demands $2,000 the price of his silence for a week, and Manning, in an unreasonable panic, pays him to get time to solve the mystery. Virginia convinces him of his innocence. Quiet leaves for a week at an artist's camp "The Mole Hill." Manning comes on Marat in the cellar at night as Papa takes a male nurse who made the pilgrimage to the basement at the same time we did. She had some urgent need to get something there. Women don't visit rest-inhabited basements at 2 in the morning. And where did she go afterwards? The police have been watching this block rather closely. I don't think she could have left the building and escaped notice. Yes, my dear sir, I'm deeply interested in the lady."

INSTALLMENT XIV:
"Who went up to Von Veb's studio first?" Manning asked.
"Sprague and Mathewson went together."
"Who came out last?"
"Mathewson; he says so, and I'd believe anything Mathewson said. Brent went out first, then Sprague, then Mathewson. I'll believe anything Brent said, too. He's the most disagreeable person I've ever encountered, hasn't the first instinct of a gentleman, but he's honest. No, you can't by the remotest chance connect Sprague directly with the dagger, but the question is—did he know anything about it? I'm interested in knowing that, and in knowing who that female was who made the pilgrimage to the basement at the same time we did. She had some urgent need to get something there. Women don't visit rest-inhabited basements at 2 in the morning. And where did she go afterwards? The police have been watching this block rather closely. I don't think she could have left the building and escaped notice. Yes, my dear sir, I'm deeply interested in the lady."

Coming downstairs late that afternoon Manning paused in the hallway, for from behind the closed door of the moon's studio came an exclamation of pain and surprise in a man's voice, then an oath, then the man called a woman an ugly name. The door opened and Virginia stood there, in her scant little black dress, with her flaming hair disheveled about her face, her firm chin lifted high on a slim taut column of neck in an attitude of pride and contempt—with a lighted cigarette in her hand. Behind her stood a tall gangling youth, about 21, dressed so much like an artist that it was impossible to believe he could really be one. He wore knickerbockers, a nipped-in coat, a lavender shirt and a flowing tie. His mouse colored hair was combed back from his face and dripped over his collar in the back. His insignificant features were decorated with a small reddish mustache, which perched on his upper lip like a butterfly.

Just then the red of the mustache was dimmed by the crimson of his face. He put his hand to his chin to feel of a small round burn. Manning stared fascinated at the artist's cigarette; she had confirmed the current legend concerning him. "She draws a line and when a man steps over that, she burns him with a cigarette."

She saw Manning and smiled, but the youth evidently did not, for he said hotly, "You're damn careful for a girl that'll stay all night in a man's studio."

Virginia laughed, a mellow contralto to chuckle. "You've forgotten an important detail, Mr. Pete," she said. "The man wasn't here, you know." Then she called to Manning, "Hello, Manning, Pete and I are quarreling. Come on and leave us a moment. Pete, this is Manning Colby who has just sold that landscape to the big calendar people. And this, Manning, is Peter Hughes."

Peter Hughes lifted his small mustache and showed his teeth like an angry guinea pig. "Come in," he said with the utmost ungraciousness. "The Monks' studio" looked like a boudoir decorated for a Halloween party—numerous cretonne covered couches, avalanches of pillows ranging from felt lettered college cushions to pink and blue and baby blue chiffon pillows and marked on unperturbed. But Manning had a violent and, to him, inexplicable urge to take the aforesaid George by the seat of his voluminous trousers and pitch him through the window.

"Mike! Fred!" Virginia hailed the other two who were attacking the bottles on the table with corkscrews. "Come, I want you to meet Manning Colby."

"For heaven's sake, don't spill it!" Mike said. "You know it took all my allowance."

"I know you'd be interested in Manning's work," Virginia went on. "He has some beautiful stuff in his studio now."

"There, you spilled it yourself," Fred scolded. "Manning, get a bottle. 'Drink, Ginny?'"

She shook her head. Manning also refused after looking at the table, staid and marked on unperturbed. But Manning had a violent and, to him, inexplicable urge to take the aforesaid George by the seat of his voluminous trousers and pitch him through the window.

Culbertson Is Sued On Contract System

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—E. Hall Downes, Pittsburgh bridge teacher, filed suit against Ely Culbertson in superior court today to determine his right to teach the "approach forcing system" of bidding.

Downes issued a statement saying he had "bought this suit against Mr. Culbertson because the time has come when he must be made to understand that no one man owns the game of contract bridge" and because "any effort to monopolize the game must be stopped."

Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson are now in London for a match with a British team which is to inaugurate an international competition for a $10,000 platinum trophy put up by Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate and bridge enthusiast.

Downes seeks an injunction restraining Culbertson and his magazine, The Bridge World, from advertising that they are the sole owners of the approach forcing system and that Downes is not authorized by them to teach it in his book.

FROGS THAT AID FEMALE WITH EGGS FOUND IN EUROPE

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—Tiny male frogs that actually assist the female in the laying of her eggs, then carry the eggs in clusters on their hind legs until they hatch, are new arrivals at the American Museum of Natural History.

Known as midwife toads, from central Europe, the males take all this responsibility upon themselves by courting with a croak that sounds "like the trinkle of a bell," say museum scientists. The scientists refer to them as alytes obstetricans.

The female has a free and easy life. When producing a quantity of eggs resembling small black beads on a gelatinous string, the male hooks his hind legs in the mass and wraps them about himself.

Then he retreats to a dark little hole for the three-week incubation period, while the lady frog resumes her carefree existence. At hatching time, the male hops to the nearest water, dips the eggs and the tadpoles free themselves from the capsules.

The lovely bride entered with her brother, John Henry Shumate Jr., by whom she was given in marriage. She was lovely in a light blue ensemble of georgette featuring a three-quarter length coat. ## 1-MAN FILIBUSTER PREVENTS ANOTHER BY FOF OF LEADERS

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—House democratic leaders today hit a move to circumvent their well-laid plans with a one-man filibuster of their own.

By forcing a strict interpretation of rules, Representative Connery, democrat, Massachusetts, sought to bring up the 40-hour work week bill approved by the labor committee, of which he is chairman. Such a move somewhat interfered with the ideas of house majority chiefs.

Finally, however, a speaker started calling the list of house committees. Connery hoped that no committee with anything ready for house action would be found before the labor committee was reached on the list.

But when the speaker called "the committee on judiciary," in came a report on a bill transferring a Tennessee county from one division of a federal judicial district to another.

And then Representative Mitchell, democrat, Tennessee, started talking. He talked an hour. He talked about "that great state," Tennessee.

Davy Crockett, Andrew Johnson, hungry farmers and whatnot. In fact, he talked until the house was about ready to adjourn.

Then, when members ordinarily ask "unanimous consent to revise and extend my remarks," he requested "revise and condense." He got the permission, and the two-one-man filibuster was over.

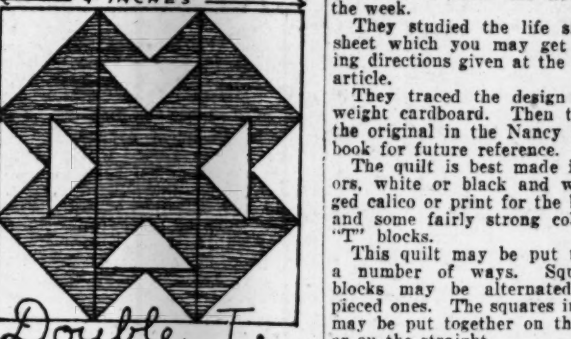

Mrs. Bernice Brown McCullar, of Milledgeville, the only woman lawyer here, spoke on her experience in the profession. Miss Julia Reese, of Eatonton, and Mrs. Octavia Kitchen, of Albany, also were guests of the association.

Mrs. Marie C. Anderson, president of the organization, introduced the speakers.

NANCY PAGE

The Double 'T' Is Really a Foursome.

BY FLORENCE LA GANKE.

Nancy was most happy to receive two blocks of an old-time pattern called "Double T."

One block came from an unknown source. It was labeled Germantown, Ky., 1880. The white was spotted and faded with age. The "T" was made of an old plaid in green and yellow, also faded with age.

The second pattern came from Mrs. Marks, of Wyman, Quebec. She makes her block in red and white. Both blocks are effective as can be. They differ somewhat from the usual "T" block, in that the center square is of solid color.

It was this explanation which Nancy Page gave to the members of the Nancy Page quilt club as they

Jinky Fan No. 1,601

"I believe Jinkys are the most fascinating things I have run across in a long time, and I certainly glad I take The Constitution or I would not have known anything about them," says Mrs. Mable McDonald. For the past two weeks Mrs. McDonald has sold Jinkys in the contest and although she has not won any prize, she is of the opinion that her entries for the third week will be among Jinkys chosen for the prizes.

After they had left the job a group of men started a march to the Shelby county courthouse, but sheriff's deputies and Ross persuaded them to abandon the plan. Instead, a committee of six was selected to confer with Hale.

Last week pay for the workers was cut to $1 from $1.25 a day. Other demands which the committee placed before Hale included an increase in the day after approximately 300 workers walked out. Both he and John Ross, director of relief, said the situation was "well in hand."

The W. Hale attributed the trouble to communist propaganda. A dodger was distributed, headlined with "Unite to Smash Hunger."

VANDENBURG RAPS HOWE FOR SPEECH ON FEDERAL BONDS

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, said in the senate today that Louis M. Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt had given erroneous information about home loan bonds in a speech last week.

Vandenberg, calling Howe's speech "the second of his $1,500 broadcasts," said that it was incorrect to call the proposed $2,000,000,000 home loan bonds just as good as any other federal bond.

Reminding colleagues that the home loan bill provided only that the government guaranteed the 4 per cent annual interest, Vandenberg said: "If it took a minute of the time of the colonel and his troupe, this information was $100 worth of misinformation."

City Bankruptcy Bill Awaits Next Session

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—Legislation providing bankruptcy relief for municipal debtors apparently will have to await the next regular session of congress.

An effort by Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, to gain senate consideration of the house-approved bill allowing cities to compose their financial difficulties in the courts with consent of two-thirds of the bondholders today ended in failure when administration leaders counseled delay.

Vandenberg made his motion to discharge a senate judiciary subcommittee from further consideration of the bill after developing from members of that committee that it would take several weeks to pass on the measure because of its broad legal phases.

CITY'S EX-TREASURER ON TRIAL IN MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 12.—(AP)—An $180 utility company tax check was placed in evidence today as the state began prosecution of J. H. Heesen, former city treasurer, charged with embezzling $6,888.

Martin J. Karl, of New York, testified that the check was in payment of a tax bill of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and that, although it was returned by Heesen, the company did not receive a receipt or a receipted voucher.

Heesen's attorney, Clarence Friedman, told the jury that the apparent irregularities were due to the confusion of bookkeeping used in the treasurer's office, and that Heesen "never took a penny" of the city's money.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 68

As Tarzan was about to spring upon the bucks, the loud trumpeting of an elephant broke the jungle's stillness. The ape-man started and looked off to one side. He craned his neck and recognized something in the distance. He slid down the tree while the bucks beneath sprang nimbly away.

Some little distance away, in the brush, a huge elephant was trumpeting shrilly. Alighting on the ground, Tarzan quickly ran to the pachyderm, who made the ape-man understand that one of his tribe was in trouble. He lifted Tarzan to his back, wheeled and made off through the jungle.

Shortly afterward, Tarzan saw another elephant entangled in a pit. As the ape-man came nearer he saw several elephants looking on helplessly. Dismounting, Tarzan made his way into the pit, and exerting all his strength, lifted a fallen tree from the back of the trapped beast.
